

Ashton Thompson, DVM, CCRP, cVMA

Ashton Thompson, DVM, CCRP, cVMA

Dr. Thompson was raised in Louisiana, but has resided in many locations across the southeast. She graduated from Louisiana State University in 2009 with a Bachelor of Animal Science and Technology. She then completed her Doctorate of Veterinary Medicine at Auburn University in 2013. While in veterinary school, Dr. Thompson was exposed to the world of canine rehabilitation and immediately knew that she wanted to specialize in this field. After graduation, Dr. Thompson moved to Nashville, TN and worked as a general practitioner. She also began her training in canine rehabilitation through the University of Tennessee and became a Certified Rehabilitation Practitioner in 2016. Dr. Thompson joined IndyVet in 2017 and is now focusing all of her efforts towards the advancement of this field and is passionate about helping pets live a more active and happy life.

In her free time, Dr. Thompson, her husband, and their Irish Setter, enjoy a plethora of activities including climbing, weightlifting, and cooking. They also volunteer for an organization that trains and places service dogs.

Education

Louisiana State University, BS Animal Science and Technology - 2009
Auburn University, DVM - 2013

Certifications

CCRP – Certified Canine Rehabilitation Practitioner – 2016
cVMA – Certified Veterinary Medical Acupuncture – 2019

Hometown

Nashville, TN

Professional Affiliations

AVMA – American Veterinary Medical Association
IVMA – Indiana Veterinary Medical Association
CIVMA - California Veterinary Medical association
AAHA - American Animal Hospital Association

Emergency & Specialty Hospital
Where care comes first.

